

UNITED WAY puts your gift to work all day, every day!

CHANGE STARTS HERE.

6:30 a.m.

An individual experiencing homelessness who is staying at the Bartlett House begins his day with case management assistance, peer counseling, and help seeking employment.

Several United Way funded partners are working to help provide a fighting chance to individuals currently experiencing homelessness.

8:00 a.m.

A mother of four visits Scott's Run Settlement House for assistance providing food for her family. The pantry provides her with food assistance and tips for making the most of her cooking habits.

Last year, over 63,830 people visited food pantries in Monongalia and Preston counties. United Way is proud to support food programs through funding, food drives, and coordinated support.

1:45 p.m.

A father who recently lost his job stops at Christian Help, where he receives food, clothing for job interviews, and support to help him make the most of his limited budget.

Last year, 14,514 people in our community received help from United Way-funded financial stability programs.

3:00 p.m.

After suspecting that her child has suffered abuse, a young mother calls The Monongalia County Child Advocacy Center where she and her children can receive support.

The CAC provides resources, support, and a safe place for them.

8:00 a.m.

Patients begin entering Milan Puskar Health Right. By the end of the day, over 50 individuals with limited or no medical insurance will receive medical treatment.

Last year, over 120 individuals received medically necessary dental care from MPHR.

1:15 p.m.

Amy, a home health aide through Visiting Homemakers arrives at the home of a client to help with cleaning and preparing meals.

Over 10,722 hours of home health assistance were provided last year.

5:00 p.m.

Sarah, a 4th grader, works on her homework at The Shack Neighborhood House. She asks for help from junior volunteer mentors who work daily to prepare young people for success.

Last year, 59,607 children participated in enriching after-school and summer programs funded by the United Way.

7:45 p.m.

Kevin, a high school freshman, packs up after an evening work session preparing for the LEGO robotics competition through Mountaineer Area Robotics (MARS).

Last year, 7,797 youth participated in STEM-based learning opportunities.

Midnight

A family who lost their home to a fire receives emergency housing, food, and clothing from the American Red Cross.

Last year, 10 families were assisted during their time of need.
